We're pleased to welcome Pieter Guichelaar to Codan as Chief Operating Officer.

Pieter joined our Executive team last week, bringing more than 20 years of experience across aerospace, automotive and advanced manufacturing. His background spans general management, production, supply chain and engineering leadership roles across Europe, the USA and APAC.

Pieter spent a significant portion of his career with engineering firm GKN, where he led supply-chain and operations for a large manufacturing site in Germany, created and led a new global industrial service business, and established the first group-wide innovation capability. After GKN's acquisition, he focused on supporting high-growth start-ups to scale operations and commercialise advanced technologies in bio-tech hardware and additive manufacturing for aerospace, defence, automotive and consumer tech.

As Codan's COO, Pieter will oversee strategic planning and business growth; operational leadership across manufacturing and supply chain; drive IT and digital enablement; champion continuous improvement; and will lead special projects and initiatives that contribute to the company's strategic goals.

We're excited to have Pieter on board and look forward to his leadership as we continue to advance Codan's growth journey.
